

Thank-You Notes to Your Interviewers

We are often asked about thank-you notes, so we've put this together to be sure your questions are answered.

- Yes, you may write a thank-you note to your interviewers. Please keep in mind that choosing to write one or not has no effect on your admissions decision.
- If you received your interviewer's email address during your interview, you may email him/her directly and do not need to cc our admissions office.
- If you did not receive your interviewer's email address, please email your thank-you note (no handwritten please) to MedSchool_Admissions@brown.edu, and we'll be sure to forward it to him/her. We do not give out our committee members' email addresses.
- Please do not use the self-upload option in our admissions portal for your thank-you note. That is for updates, letters of interest, etc.
- If you did receive an interviewer's email address and end up on our waitlist, please correspond directly with the Office of Admissions (MedSchool_Admissions@brown.edu) regarding your level of interest and any questions you have, instead of with your interviewer(s).
